

Lectures on Law and EconomicsAcademic Year 2008/2009

Room 1083a, Von-Melle-Park 5, on Thursdays, 6pm (c.t.)

The Institute of Law and Economics announces its lecture series for the academic year 2008/09. Over several years the lecture series has become an integral part of law and economics in Hamburg. Its goal is the furtherance of the interdisciplinary dialogue within the continuously growing international research community. The director of the Institute of Law and Economics Prof. Thomas Eger and Jun. Prof. Patrick C. Leyens warmly invite all interested researchers and students of law and economics to participate.

- 30.10.2008 Has Interjurisdictional Solidarity Gone too Far? Analyzing the Impact of Germany's Cooperative Fiscal Federalism on Accountability in Public Spending.
Nancy Hite, LL.M. (EMLE), Department of Political Science, Yale University
- 04.12.2008 The Social Function of Property Rights in Brazil
Flavia Vera, Prof., JSD (Berkeley), LL.M. (Berkeley), Professor at Universidade de Direito Público and Universidade do Legislativo, Brasília, Visiting Scholar at the Institute of Law and Economics, Hamburg
- 05.02.2009 The Regulation of Financial Intermediaries in the Aftermath of the Financial Crisis
Markus Reberg, Dr., Dipl.-Volksw., LL.M. (Cambridge), Law Faculty, University of Munich
- 26.02.2009 Efficient Governance Structures for Consumer Transactions: A Behavioural Law and Economics Perspective
Qi Zhou, Ph.D (Manchester), LL.M. (Bournemouth), LL.B. (China University of Politics and Law), Lecturer in Law, University of Sheffield
- 12.03.2009 Is the Stock Market Myopic?
Andreas Engert, Priv.-Doz. Dr., LL.M. (Chicago), Law Faculty, University of Munich